Reflection on Research Identity- Classroom Discussion Activity

Students work in small groups to reflect on and discuss their identities as developing researchers before sharing insights with the larger learning community.

Discussion prompts:

- Share the experience you have had with research in the past, and what you hope to do in the future.
- Discuss your emerging areas of interest and specialization.
- Identify the areas you want to focus on and need additional support
- Consider how your mentor can best support your growth in these areas
